

Disability Awareness Information Sessions:

"I learned to be less afraid of helping customers with disabilities."

"The booklet you prepared is great! It is full of useful and relevant information which staff can read and refer back to at a later date."
– Calgary Public Library

- provide a forum for exploring deeply held stereotypes and historical stigma experienced by people with developmental disabilities
- provide a safe learning environment where participants can ask questions and discover their own ability to find the answers to common questions and concerns about interacting and communicating with people with developmental disabilities
- are designed to be collaborative and open
- encourage an exchange of ideas and strategies on how to be more aware, comfortable, and sensitive when interacting and communicating with people with disabilities

Information sessions are provided on-site at your organization and can be general in nature and/or tailored according to your organization's specific requirements. The length of information sessions depend on each organization's requirements. Typically, Disability Awareness Information Sessions are provided as a half-day or full-day session and can accommodate up to 20 people per session.

Session facilitators include two qualified trainers from DDRC, including a person with a developmental disability.

Cost of information sessions:

Corporate Rate

Full Day	$100 per person (includes lunch provided by Bow Catering, owned and operated by DDRC)
Half Day	$ 50 per person

* Reduced rates available to non-profit organizations and community groups.

"Inclusive communities are ones where all people, regardless of any disability, can attend neighborhood schools, find jobs, live in homes of their choosing, and have friends."

- DDRC

The Developmental Disabilities Resource Centre of Calgary (DDRC) is a non-profit, charitable organization dedicated to including people with developmental disabilities into the community in real and meaningful ways. DDRC not only provides programs and services to support children and adults with developmental disabilities, but also exists as a resource centre to the general public to support the inclusion of all people in the Calgary community.
